True Prism Technologies – Pro-active in AI Parish investigation!

True Prism (D/B/A Ulanji, Inc.) is an Internet technology company located in Summerville, SC. Our company has provided hosting and email services for hundreds of customers throughout our ten year history, including providing services for Parish Economics. As the facts of the allegations against Mr. Parish began to unfold, we became concerned that data on our hosting servers might contain important information relevant to the case. True Prism contacted the SEC immediately to seek their guidance and offer our assistance. The SEC agreed with our concerns, and arrangements were made to transfer the necessary files.

Today's edition of the Charleston Post and Courier published the initial Receiver's Report in the Parish case. Ulanji, Inc was mentioned in the documents, and we would like to pro-actively notify our clients and friends regarding several key points:

- Ownership of True Prism: Founded over 10 years ago as Dynamic Consulting, Inc., True Prism Technologies is a South Carolina LLC with a number of private investors. AI Parish owns less than 10% of the stock of the company and served on the Board of Directors. As of Friday, April 6, 2007, Parish has been removed from the Board. The company operates its business from offices in downtown Summerville.
- Employees of True Prism Technologies: An employee leasing company, Unlimited Hiring Possibilities, was recently purchased by AI Parish. For several years prior to the purchase, True Prism used the services of the company for payroll computation and healthcare benefit management. On April 6, 2007, the assets of Unlimited Hiring were frozen, and our employees became direct employees of True Prism. We continue to work with a full staff of technical and sales personnel.
